CIA Head Says Unrest Haunts The Kremlin

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP) —

Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency said tonight the force most feared by Russia's rulers is the desire of their own people for freedom.

The desire of all men to be free, Dulles said in an address at the 23d annual New York Herald Tribune Forum, "haunts the rulers of the Kremlin today."

The democracies, he said, "can and must exploit" this fear, which he termed the "Achilles Heel" of the Communist dictatorship.

"We must make the most of the latent but nonetheless real force of freedom that has not killed behind the iron curtain, even in Russia, itself," Dulles added.

He told the forum that in the past five years 1,800,000 persons fled from Soviet East Germany and 250,000 recently chose to "leave Ho Chi Minh's paradise" in Communist Vietnam.

"Compared with all those who have sought freedom in the West, the few frustrated failures who have defected to the East are relatively insignificant," he said.
